

Terms of Service

Last updated: July 16, 2026

These Terms of Service ("Terms") govern private lessons, coaching sessions, workshops, and direction or music-direction engagements ("Services") provided by Anthony Eversole ("the Studio," "we," "us"), whether delivered in person in Salt Lake City, Utah, or remotely via video conference. By booking, purchasing, or attending a Service, you ("Client," "Student," or, for a minor student, the enrolling parent or guardian) agree to these Terms.

1. Services

The Studio provides private voice lessons, acting coaching, and audition preparation for individual students, as well as music direction, stage direction, and workshop engagements for organizations, on the terms described below and any additional terms confirmed in writing for a specific engagement.

2. Scheduling & Cancellations

Lesson times are reserved specifically for the enrolled student. We ask for as much notice as possible for any change.

- Lessons canceled or rescheduled with less than 24 hours' notice are charged in full and are not eligible for make-up.
- Lessons canceled by the Studio (illness, emergency, scheduling conflict) will be rescheduled or credited in full, at the Client's choice.
- Lesson packages expire six months from the date of purchase. Unused lessons remaining after that date are forfeited.
- Repeated late cancellations or no-shows may result in loss of a held weekly time slot.

3. Payment

Payment is collected at the time of booking through the Studio's online scheduling provider. Package rates are non-refundable once purchased, but may be transferred to another student with the Studio's prior approval. The Studio reserves the right to update posted rates for future bookings; rates already paid for a current package are not affected.

4. Minors

For students under 18, a parent or legal guardian must attend the initial consultation, remain reachable by phone during lessons, and is responsible for accepting these Terms on the student's behalf. The Studio may decline to continue instruction with a minor student if a parent or guardian cannot be reasonably reached in an ongoing way.

5. Assumption of Risk & Liability

Voice, acting, and movement instruction can involve physical exertion, including vocal exercise, stage movement, and, at times, staged physical contact or choreography. Clients participate voluntarily and assume the ordinary risks associated with this kind of physical and vocal activity, including strain, fatigue, or minor injury.

The Studio is not liable for injury, loss, or damage arising from participation in a Service, except to the extent caused by the Studio's own gross negligence or willful misconduct. Clients are responsible for informing the Studio of any relevant medical condition, vocal injury, or physical limitation before a lesson begins.

6. Recordings & Media

Practice recordings and written notes provided after a lesson are for the Client's personal study use only and may not be redistributed or published without the Studio's permission.

The Studio may, from time to time, photograph or record a lesson, workshop, or performance for internal review or promotional use (for example, on the Studio's website or social media). A Client or guardian may decline this at any time by notifying the Studio in writing; the Studio will not use identifiable images or recordings of a Client who has opted out.

7. Direction & Workshop Engagements

Terms for music direction, stage direction, music production, and workshop or clinic bookings — including fees, schedule, and scope of work — are confirmed individually by written agreement (email is sufficient) following an inquiry through the Studio's For Organizations page. These Terms apply to such engagements generally, alongside whatever specific terms are agreed in writing; where the two conflict, the individually confirmed written agreement controls.

8. Code of Conduct

The Studio is a professional and respectful environment for students of all ages and backgrounds. The Studio may decline or discontinue service to any Client for conduct that is abusive, unsafe, or otherwise inconsistent with that standard, with any prepaid, unused lessons refunded on a pro-rated basis in that event.

9. Intellectual Property

Original exercises, arrangements, coaching materials, and curricula provided by the Studio remain the intellectual property of Anthony Eversole and are licensed to the Client for personal educational use only.

10. Governing Law

These Terms are governed by the laws of the State of Utah, without regard to its conflict-of-laws principles, and any dispute arising under them will be resolved in the state or federal courts located in Utah.

11. Changes to These Terms

The Studio may update these Terms from time to time. The current version will always be posted on the Studio's website with its effective date; continued booking or attendance after a change takes effect constitutes acceptance of the revised Terms.

12. Contact

Questions about these Terms can be directed to Anthony Eversole at eversole.anthony@gmail.com.

Note: This document is a starting draft based on the policies already described on the Studio's website. It is not a substitute for advice from a licensed attorney — review it with one before relying on it, particularly Sections 5 (Assumption of Risk & Liability), 4 (Minors), and 6 (Recordings & Media).